Travel & Tourism Analysis - India

Insights, Dashboards & Business Recommendations

Problem Statement

- Tourism stakeholders lack structured insights into spending patterns, tourist segmentation, and seasonal trends.

Objective

- Transform raw data into meaningful insights
- Understand tourist behavior
- Enable data-driven tourism strategies

Data Cleaning

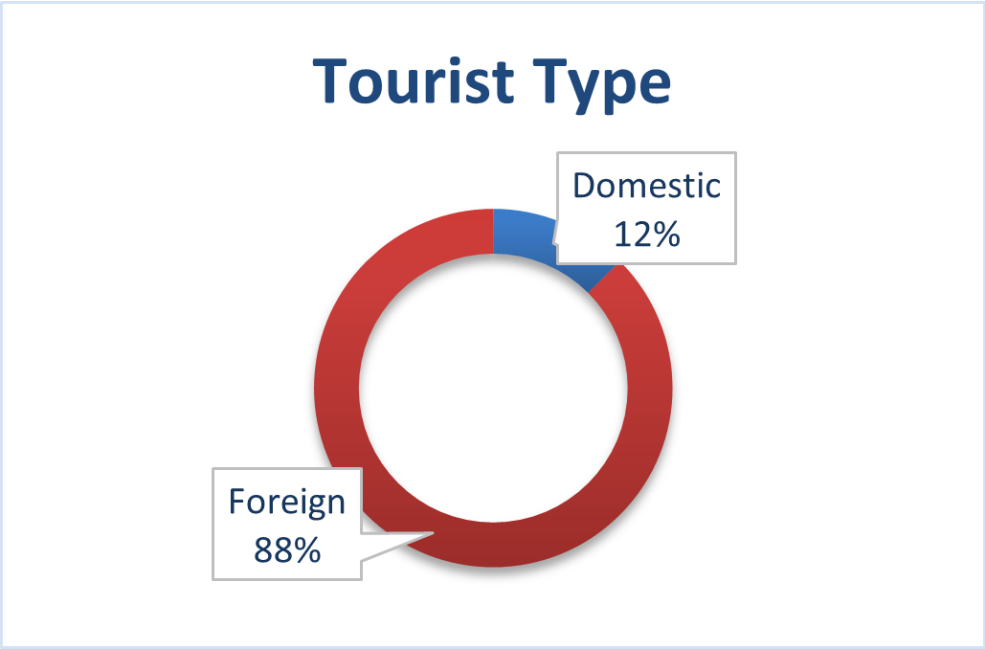
- Applied filters on headers
- Used Replace function to standardize inconsistent city/state/country names
- Normalized text casing
- Improved overall data consistency

Feature Engineering

- Tourist Type: Domestic vs Foreign (IF function)
- Average Daily Spend = Total Spend / Days
- Months Duration categorized into seasons using IF function

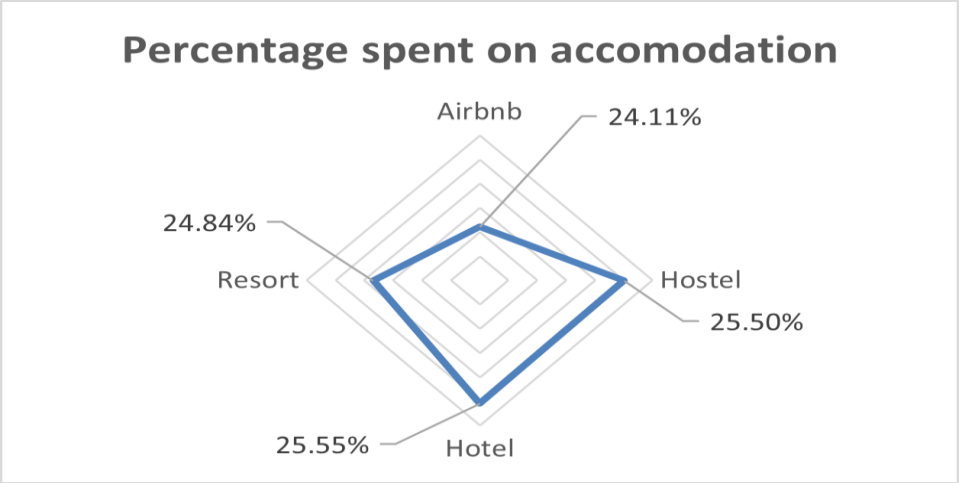
Pivot 1 Insight

- Foreign tourists significantly outnumber domestic tourists
- Indicates strong international tourism demand



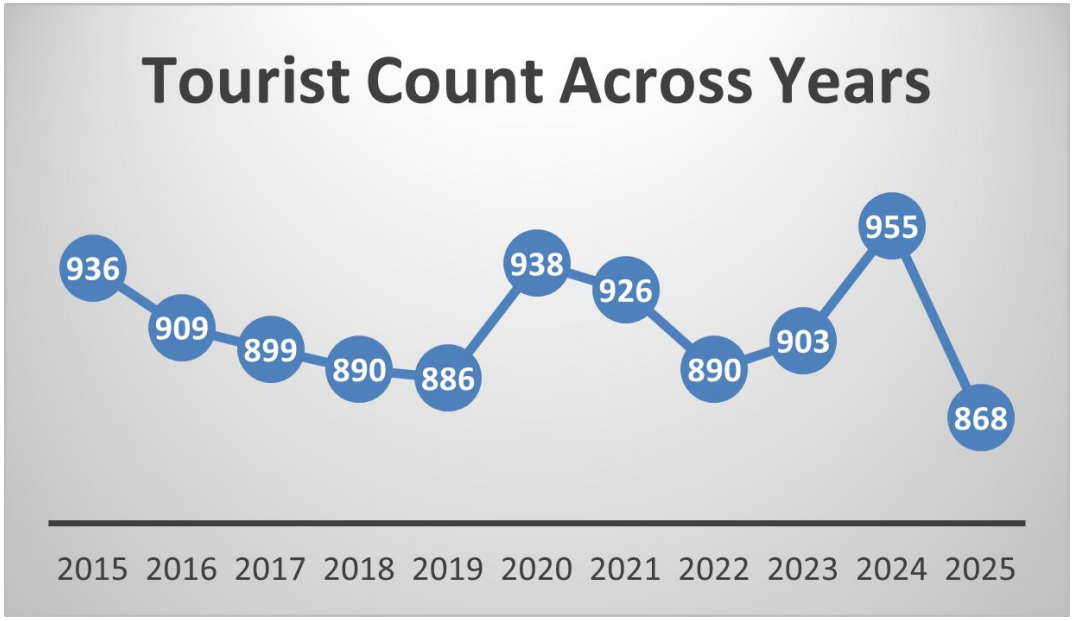
Pivot 2 Insight

- Higher spending observed among foreign tourists on accommodation across various categories
- Domestic tourists show budget-conscious behavior



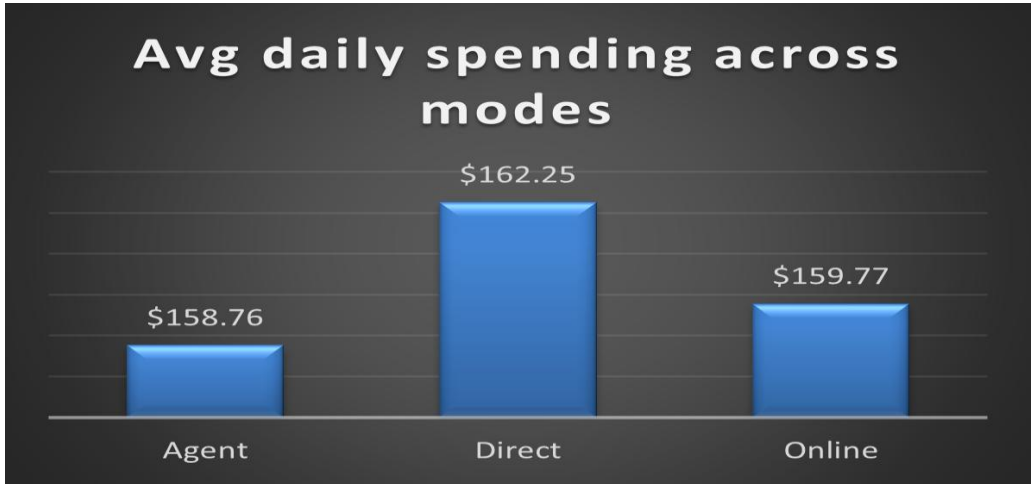
Pivot 3 Insight

- Peak tourism trend over the years
- The trend shows a major decline requiring immediate attention



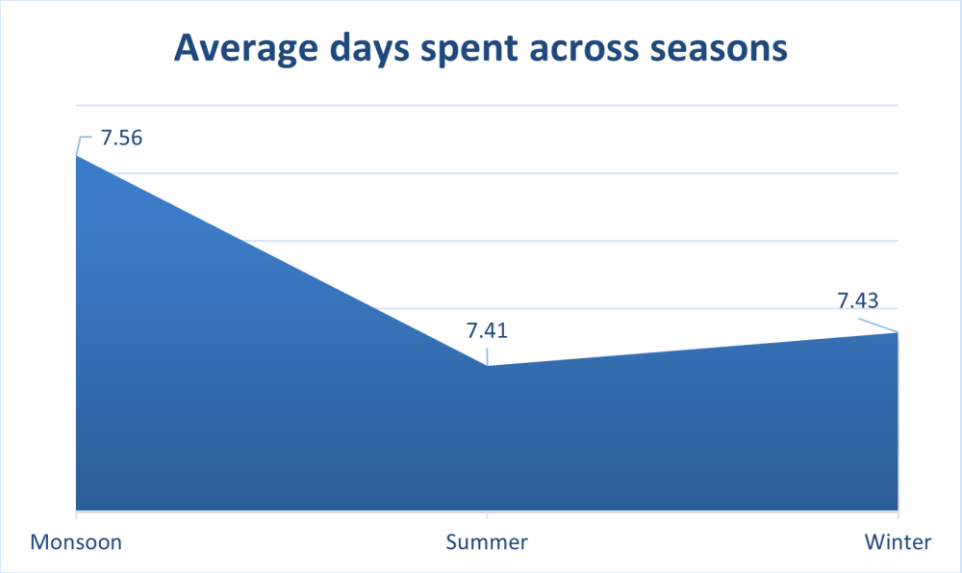
Pivot 4 Insight

- Average daily spending varies by tourist type and modes of booking
- Direct communication is preferred while other channels require attention for it's low numbers



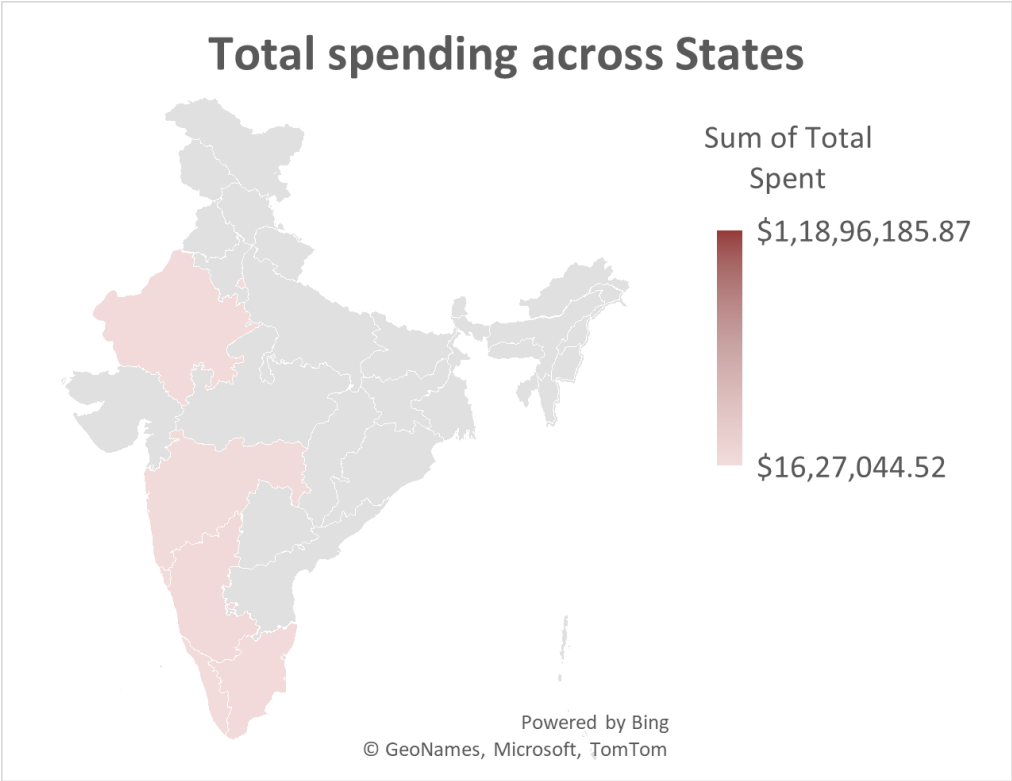
Pivot 5 Insight

- Longer stays correlate with seasonality
- Opportunity to promote extended travel packages during peak seasons



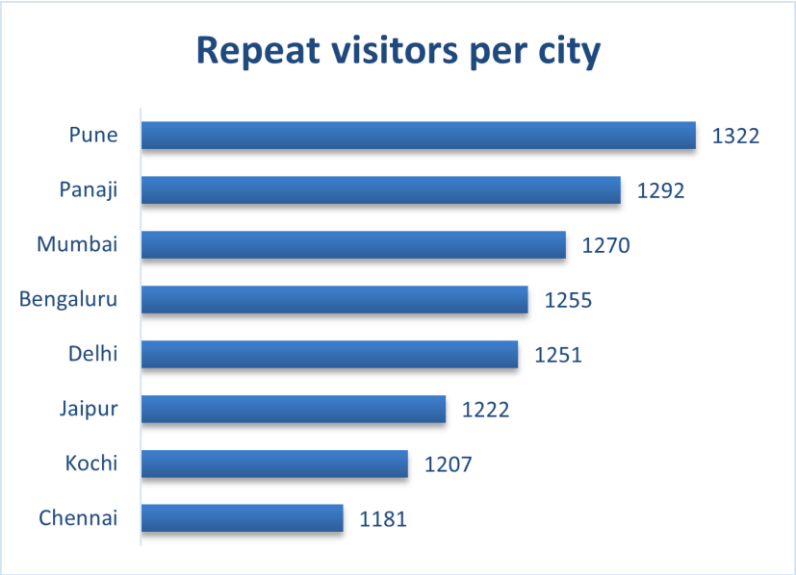
Pivot 6 Insight

- Certain regions attract more foreign tourists
- Indicates strong destination branding impact



Pivot 7 Insight

- Certain cities are favourites for repeat visitors
- Displays a sense of familiarity and customer satisfaction



Dashboard Insights

- Interactive dashboards visualize:
- Tourist segmentation
- Seasonal trends
- Spending patterns
- Regional distribution

Who Can Use This

- Tourism Mantralaya & government bodies
- Travel companies & agencies
- Hotel & hospitality sector
- Investors & analysts

Key Recommendations

- Focus on foreign tourist experience enhancement
- Create seasonal offers for low-demand periods
- Promote long-duration travel packages
- Target high-spending customer segments